

ABOUT MARRIED MEN AND THEIR FLIRTATIONS

(By Mrs. John A. Logan.)

We regret to see in a long article by John Strange Winter, a tendency to apologize for this species of vanity and infidelity on the part of married men. The writer strains the point by saying that without this privilege there could be no social life. In fact, time to his wife and is dominated by her, he would not even have the privilege of dancing with any one else. Nobody imagines that the civilities that obtain in social life borders on flirtations. There would be few women who would allow themselves to dance with married men if they thought that by so doing they would be the victims of flirtatious propensities of their partners. No sane woman would expect her husband to be always in her company. On the contrary a woman is very glad when other women admire her husband, as it, in a word, commends her choice, but it is known that this same woman would not be at all satisfied if she discovered in her husband a disposition to carry on a flirtation with other women.

There can be no more reprehensible tendency in any man than that he should allow himself to indulge in foolish attentions to either married or unmarried women. Women are also warned of the consequences of their accepting these attentions seriously, and are given good advice. It is quite true that all flirtations end unhappily and not infrequently in the disgrace of the parties to such illicit relations.

There is no such thing as an innocent flirtation, and the same may be said of platonic friendships between men and women, as there is a limit even in the warmth of regard manifested for one's dearest friends, and the moment that one steps outside of the proprieties which govern the intercourse of men and women, that moment one may be subject to criticism and to misconstruction of one's feelings toward another.

Loyalty in thought, word and deed should govern every married man and woman, and when that loyalty does not exist there is much misunderstanding, heart burning and all too frequently ultimate separation.

Oftentimes one drifts into undue regard for some accepted friend, who presuming upon courtesies shown him dares to take unwarranted privileges, causing the keenest suffering to the person who had shown him every kindness and courtesy.

Woman's vanity and love of admiration often lead her to accept admiration from the husband of one of her friends, thereby inflicting, without any compunctions of conscience, unspeakable mischief which she has wrought and can never undo.

Men are not behind women in vanity, conceit and love of admiration, and will accept flattery from a wife's best friend or any other silly woman who is foolish enough to bestow it upon one who he knows has sworn to love and cherish another.

As a matter of fact flirtations should be condemned in men and women; neither has the right to indulge in this species of evil, especially if either is married. Trifling with human affections is one of the most cowardly and wicked propensities of mankind, and absolutely without hope of happy or moral results.

SPLIT IN REPUBLICAN PARTY FORECASTED BY ITS LEADERS

Guthrie, Ok., June 29.—Conclusions reached by the Republican conference in the Oklahoma City conference that the Tulsa convention to be held July 12 would refuse to nominate a ticket and oppose the constitution does not appear to meet the wishes of other leaders who have been in touch with the National Administration regarding the Oklahoma situation. Any attempt to force such a policy, particularly that regarding the state ticket, will result in a convention battle, and if successful, more than likely disrupt the party organization. Notice was served by Charles Elson, secretary of the Territory, today, that a republican state ticket would be nominated and Gov. Frantz, who left this afternoon to attend the opening of the congressional campaign in the Second District has appeared in a public statement advocating a full ticket and a campaign. What is to be the attitude on the constitution will be left for the convention to decide.

It is charged by Territorial leaders who were not at the conference that the course outlined there has as its basis opposition to the candidacy of Gov. Frantz for the first Governor of Oklahoma. He represents the Roosevelt Administration in politics, controls Federal patronage, and through him the president recently brought about a truce between the warring political factions of the Territory. In addition to this, it is charged, an organization to nominate the republican party in the new state is involved.

While in Washington both the National and campaign committees, secretary Taft, speaking presumably for the President, Representative Sherman of the congressional committee, Secretary Cortelyou and other leaders, advised the Oklahoma Republicans to return home and wage the best fight possible. Financial and oratorical assistance was promised by an effort to win the new state to the republican column, or at least to preserve the party organization.

These facts will be presented to the 1,600 delegates who will attend the Tulsa gathering, and should Secretary Taft be one of the speakers, he will also probably have something to say about it.

In the course of his statement today Gov. Frantz, who is the only republican candidate announced for a state office, said:

The republican party has everything to gain and nothing to lose by putting out a state ticket. It should also get out a new organization and elect a state chairman who will harmonize all the elements in the party and be satisfactory to the rank and file. The advice of every National leader is to put a ticket in the field by which we can make a successful campaign and maintain the party organization.

Should we fail to do so the organization would go to pieces and we could not even get representation on the election board. It is not inconsistent that republicans nominate a ticket, yet oppose the constitution.

"I think President Murray's statement in Oklahoma City that whether the constitution goes through in its present form or not the people will eventually have the constitution recently framed here, is most significant. It indicates the democrats intend to make any changes in the constitution they deem necessary to get statehood, but after securing it they would renege the provisions eliminated. The republicans would be in a deplorable predicament should they fail to put a ticket in the field and the democrats should alter the constitution so as to insure Oklahoma's admission to the union, and the installation of a full set of state officers."

Territorial Republican leaders here today also believe the appointment of the so-called "blue" committee by State Chairman Hanna has led the party into a trap set by President Murray of the constitutional convention, who invited the republicans to make known their objections in order after hold their peace. As the party has heretofore refrained from giving advice, an effort is being made to make the response a vigorous political document in which the democrats are to be told they must stand or fall by their own work. Members of the committee do not share this opinion but believing the convention will only alter the election date, favor preservation of the objections in detail.

Long Live the King.

In the popular eye throughout European countries, while in America, the cry of the present day is "Long live Dr. King's New Discovery, King of cures and Long Remedies!" of which Mrs. Julia Ryder Paine, Truro, Mass., says: "It never fails to give immediate relief and to quickly cure a cough or cold." Mrs. Paine's opinion is shared by a majority of the inhabitants of this country. New Discovery cures weak lungs and sore throat after all other remedies have failed; and for coughs and colds it's the only cure cure. Guaranteed by W. B. Frame, City Drug Store.

GREAT WHITE CHIEF RESIGNS TAMS BIXBY QUIT MONDAY

Ardmoreite Special.

Washington, D. C., June 29.—Tams Bixby, who has been for years the commissioner of the Five Civilized Tribes and who is known as the Great White Chief of Indian Territory, has at last succeeded in resigning his job and will definitely wind up his connection with the Indian service today. He will be succeeded by Indian Inspector J. George Wright, who will assume the reins of his new office Monday. Mr. Wright is a Chicagoan, but has been in the Indian service since 1887 and has a wide knowledge of the redskin and his ways. His salary is doubled by the appointment, from $2,500 to $5,000 a year.

Mr. Bixby, the retiring commissioner, has tendered his resignation three times previously, but on each occasion has been persuaded by the secretary of the interior to retain the position. He is a newspaper man by profession and a former citizen of Minnesota. It is stated here that he has secured control of the St. Paul Pioneer Press, the most influential journal of the Minnesota capital, and will take possession next week.

Persons connected with the Indian bureau in Washington have long been aware that commissioner Bixby intended to return to the newspaper field on a larger scale upon leaving the public service and the editorial management of the Pioneer Press will afford him that opportunity.

SKELETON IN CAR

BONES OF HUMAN BODY FOUND IN BOX CAR LOADED WITH LIME.

Durant, I. T., June 29.—A gruesome find was made yesterday at Armstrong, I. T., five miles north of Durant, on the Missouri, Kansas and Texas, in a box car, in the shape of the bones of a human body in a box about six feet wide by three feet long. The bones were practically without flesh, which had been eaten from the bones by lime that had been placed in the box, supposedly for this purpose.

The box was in the bottom of a car of lime in barrels, consigned to the Texas Company, which is constructing a pipe line from Tulsa to the Gulf of Mexico, and which is constructing a monster midway pumping station at Armstrong. The box was discovered by the employees of the pipe line company who unloaded the car. United States Marshal Sexton inspected the box this morning but made no disposal of it and it remains in the car.

The car is No. 9,634 of the Chicago, St. Paul and Kansas City. It was billed on June 22 from Ada to Armstrong.

over the Katy. As there are two way bills it can not be known to a certainty whether the car was loaded at Henrietta or Ada. As the box containing the body was at the bottom of the car it was evidently placed in it before it was loaded. There are no marks on the box to indicate where it came from and the affair is a complete mystery.

Was in Poor Health for Years

Ira W. Kelley, of Mansfield, Pa., writes: "I was in poor health for two years, suffering from kidney and bladder trouble, and spent considerable money consulting physicians without obtaining any marked benefit, but was cured by Foley's Kidney Cure and I desire to add my testimony that it may be the cause of restoring the health of others." Live Stock Market.

Kansas City, June 29.—Quarantine receipts have been reduced nearly one half, as compared with supply last week, but the market has not improved any. Prices are probably to be lower than last week, but feeling is better and trading more prompt. Advices from the Oage country indicate that movement from there will begin at once, and receipts this week were held down by storms and high water in that country. No dry lot cattle have been included this week, the best grades of wintered steers sold at $1.45 to $1.50, thin steers $3.50 to $4.25 cows $2.25 to $3.50, calves $1.00 to $2.50. Supplies of natives are smaller this week prices not much changed. It is the belief that native run will be small for several weeks ahead, as dry lot cattle are getting scarce, and half fed stuff not numerous enough to make any large showing, while grass cattle from native territory will not move for some time. Hogs are coming freely, market fluctuating excitedly but within a narrow limit, prices practically unchanged from first of the week, at $5.85 to $5.95. Mutton prices have had several hard knocks lately, grass stock 15 to 25 lower again today Texas muttons worth $5.00 to $5.25, Arizona yearlings up to $6.00, ewes $4.99 to $5.15, goats $3.25 to $3.60, lambs $7.00 to $7.50.

War Against Consumption.

NEW MYSTERY TELEGRAPH

SPEED OF THOUSAND WORDS A MINUTE POSSIBLE.

IS MARVELOUS ACHIEVEMENT

Will Revolutionize Present Telegraph. One Operator Equal to Twenty-five Hand Operators Using the Morse Code.

Through the courtesy of Mr. Robert L. Dean, president of the Dean Rapid Telegraph Company, a reporter from this paper personally examined the system and sent and received messages to and from St. Louis. This system will undoubtedly revolutionize the telegraph systems of this and foreign countries as soon as it is known. It seems practically impossible that a thousand words a minute could be transmitted by wire, but Mr. Dean assured The Post representative that the theoretical limit was as high as 1,800 words a minute. The present maximum number of words which a good operator can send by the Morse code does not exceed forty to fifty words per minute. The immense saving of time and the small cost for transmission of messages will make telegraphy as cheap as special delivery mail.

From the old style of dot-dash-dot to an automatic typewriting machine which clicks off messages of 1,000 words a minute is a long step, but Mr. Dean, who has been working on this problem for many years, has accomplished this marvelous achievement. Mr. Dean, the inventor, completed the perfect machine several months ago and since that time has been demonstrating the practicability of his invention by sending and receiving messages on various lines to and from different points in the state. The company is using what is called a phantom circuit furnished by the Home Telephone company and the operation of which does not interfere with the regular telephone business.

Instead of sending a letter at a time, the message is prepared on a special typewriter in the ordinary way and is then placed on the automatic feet of the instrument, which sends it a line at a time and is received in the same manner at the receiving station at the other end of the line. One wire is all that is used, and one operator can transmit as much as twenty-five operators and fifty wires with the old system. It is certainly marvelous the amount of matter that can be sent and received by the use of this instrument in such a short time. Letters can be sent practically as cheap by telegraph as by post and it is expected that many business men will realize this fact and use it to a large extent.

Mr. Dean is making daily demonstrations at his office, 455-456 Sheddley building, at Ninth and Main streets, and invites the business men of this city to call and see the operation of this wonderful machine and send messages of any kind free.

Mr. Dean is able to economize time and material to such an extent that he can leave wires or install his own equipment and handle ordinary business correspondence at such reasonable rates that his system will soon be as freely used as the United States mail service and still be able to declare satisfactory dividends on the necessary capital.—Kansas City Post.

Sulphur, I. T., June 29.—Miss Columbia's birthday will be celebrated on a grand scale in the city of thirty-four mineral springs. The celebration will last three days and three nights. Uncle Bill Cross Frank Greer, Pichiora Blair, Charles Carter, Mazaripa Turner and other noted speakers will be present.

W. J. Bryan attracted the largest crowd that ever met in Harper's opera house. A respectable sprinkling of Indians were present. About fifty venerable simon-pure Democrats sat on the platform, close to the world-famous orator of the common people. Mr. Bryan's lecture consisted of remarks about some of the oddest things he saw in foreign lands. He prefaced his lecture by praising the proposed constitution of the state of Oklahoma. That caused opera house shaking applause.

Dr. J. S. Riley, aged 94 years, who has lived on the same farm near Pilot Point, Texas, the last forty years, is here visiting his nephew, Rev. Riley, and to improve his health by drinking bromide and sulphur water. The old gentleman is uncle of the famous Hoosier poet, Whitcomb Riley, and is himself a natural born rhymster.

The Sulphur, Oil, Gas and Mineral Development company, capital stock $150,000, intends to begin drilling operations within the next three weeks. The company proposes to put the drilling outfits to work in the good cause of exploring the inside of Sulphur earth.
